THE STATUE OF THE GREAT STATESMAN UNVEILED AT CONCORD.

The Monument Presented to the State of New Hampshire by Benjamin Pierce Cheney of Boston Dedicated Yesterday with Appropriate Exercises—How the Figure Appears to the Eye of the Sculptor—A Laudatory Ode by William C. Gaylord.

CONCORD, N. H., June 18.—The statue of Daniel Webster, presented to the State of New Hampshire by Benjamin Pierce Cheney of Boston, was delivered today with impressive and military ceremonies. The statue has been erected in the State-House Park, about 100 yards east of the Capitol. The pedestal is of the finest Concord granite, and was designed by Thomas Ball, the sculptor, long a resident of Boston. It is eight feet high and weighs 2,000 pounds. Webster measures seven feet, six inches over-all, being clothed in the full dress costume of a United States Senator, with the exception of the coat, which is open in front and hangs over the left arm, as if about to be put on.

The right hand is raised and partly extended, as though the orator were addressing the people. The left hand holds a part of the coat, which is thrown back from the body. The head is turned a little to the right, and the countenance wears the expression of deep thought and earnestness which characterized the great statesman when he was addressing an audience. The statue is a good likeness of Webster, and is considered a work of art.

A Fund Million in Sight—Mr. Carlton Doing Quite Well in His Great-Gallery Venture.

Chicago Evening Mail: Some of the city newspapers pleased over a gesture over the scheme of Carlton and his Philadelphia group to form a new corporation on the North Side and to have the old Columbian Museum, which is now in the hands of a receiver, sold to them, with a view to tearing it down and erecting a new building on the site. Mr. Carlton has not yet said that he would accept the latest overture with the condition of holding a lodge at Clark street; it is the impression that he will finally agree to it, holding all lodgings until the last moment. It is understood that, if the settlement goes with that penalty surrendered to it, the corporation of the museum, after a payment, will not bother him to agree to an offer to sell back over the $250,000 it will cost to build it.

The next move will be watched with considerable interest, for Mr. Carlton has not yet said that he would not take the $250,000 and run. He has been in Chicago for a week, and has been in frequent consultation with Mr. Ryerson, who is also interested in the new enterprise, and with Mr. Field, who is also interested in the old museum. Mr. Field has not yet said that he would not like to get rid of the old museum, and Mr. Ryerson has not yet said that he would not like to see the new one started. Mr. Carlton has not yet said that he would not like to get out of the way, and Mr. Ryerson has not yet said that he would not like to see the old one moved. Mr. Carlton has not yet said that he would accept the latest overture with the condition of holding a lodge at Clark street; it is the impression that he will finally agree to it, holding all lodgings until the last moment. It is understood that, if the settlement goes with that penalty surrendered to it, the corporation of the museum, after a payment, will not bother him to agree to an offer to sell back over the $250,000 it will cost to build it.

"We don't care who the capital is put tribute to," said Mr. A. C. Bird yesterday, "I am in favor of Lake View, and I am interested in it, and so is Mr. Field, but we don't care where the Field Columbian Museum is located. We are willing to assist in the project, and we are willing to see it go to Jackson Park, or to Lake View, or to Lincoln Park, or anywhere else. We don't care where it goes, and we don't care who puts it there

CIVIL-SERVICE CLERKS.

THE PRESIDENT ASKED TO OBTAIN JOINT INFORMATION.

Mr. Ingalls and the Senate Would Like to Have Something About the Appointments and Removals of Clerks and Chief of Division—Cost of the Seattle Case—A Group of Senate Bills—The Senate Lands Committee Changes the Cannon's Northern Pacific Bill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 13.—In the Senate today Mr. Ingalls offered a resolution requesting the President, if in his opinion not incompatible with the public interest, to furnish to the Senate information as to the appointments and removals of clerks employed within the provisions of the Civil-service act of Jan. 16, 1883, also of chief clerks and chiefs of divisions.

In the suggestion of Mr. Caldwell, who moved to amend and accepted the usage of the resolution, it went over one day.

The following is the text of the resolution:

Resolved, That the President be requested, if in his opinion not incompatible with the public interest, to furnish to the Senate the following information:

First—The number of clerks now employed under the provisions of the Civil-service act of Jan. 16, U. S. 1883, who have separated from office in the several executive Departments, and the number of such clerks from each of said Departments who have separated from office by the expiration of their terms of service as fixed by law, or by resignation, or by removal, and the cause assigned in each case for such removal, and the number of such clerks who have been appointed to office in the several executive Departments, and the number appointed from each State or Territory, and the number appointed from the District of Columbia, since the 4th day of March, 1893, and the number appointed from each State or Territory, and the number appointed from the District of Columbia, since the 1st day of July, 1894, and the number appointed from each State or Territory, and the number appointed from the District of Columbia, since the 1st day of July, 1895, and the number appointed from each State or Territory, and the number appointed from the District of Columbia, since the 1st day of July, 1896, according to the apportionment of the census of 1890, and the number of clerks employed in the several executive Departments, and the number of clerks employed in the several executive Departments from each State or Territory, and the number of clerks employed in the several executive Departments from the District of Columbia, according to the apportionment of the census of 1890

C. F. GUNTHER of this city has in his possession Daniel Webster's book containing his bill of correspondents.

DR. MARIA P. SPENCER, the first wife of the late Wilbur F. Storey, has commenced a suit for dower against her husband's estate.

S. S. JACKSON has sold to E. C. Pike for $30,000 an 18,000-foot lot at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Sixteenth street, east front.

GEN. LOPEZAN, Secretary of the Chinese Peace Committee, attempted strangulation before the Senate Committee on Agriculture yesterday.

A DAUGHTER of Daniel Webster, presented to the State of New Hampshire by Benjamin Pierce Cheney of Boston, was dedicated at Concord yesterday.

CHARLES BELLE was lost by the Coroner's jury which yesterday completed its investigation into the Canal street fire in which eight persons lost their lives.

A BILL was introduced in the House yesterday providing for the issuance of assets by organizations and prohibiting the importation of adulterated articles of food and drink.

MR. PARNELL is preparing an election manifesto, to be addressed to the English people, for the purpose of removing Ireland to the consequences of granting home rule to Ireland.

A VOTE taken in the House yesterday on the question of taking up the Morrison Tariff bill resulted in its defeat. Mr. Morrison gave notice that he would renew the motion Tuesday.

THE Pontiac yesterday again authorized the auditor action in the case of the New York Yacht Club. It is likely that she, in stead of the Puritan, will defend the cup in the race with the English cutter.

THE Young Men's Liberal Club of Toronto has drawn up a platform demanding for Canada, among other things, independence, a tariff for revenue only, a commercial union with the United States, and total prohibition.

MR. PAGE'S measure authorizing the President to invite the various American cotton or coal delegates to a convention for mutual, political, and commercial gain at Washington, Oct. 1, 1887, was presented to the House yesterday.

THEY say that a certain well-known speculator in wheat in this market is considering the feasibility of using some of the keys to launch of passion. He said then a lot of pain the other day, and then sold the wheat on the regular market, expecting that it would be "put" to him on the privileges. But he was mistaken, and now finds himself the victim of a misplaced confidence in his ability to judge what will be done by people who make books with him.

THE New York Board of Trade and Transportation has declared in favor of the Interstate bill passed by the House of Representatives. The reason given for this action is stated to be that "local efforts to compel the honest sale of lotion substitutes have proved inadequate on account of the inter-State character of the trade and inadequate means in many parts of the country to prevent its fraudulent sale." The board believes it to be to the interest alike of producers, consumers, and honest dealers that the bill should become a law.

THE Chicago money market was quiet and steady, but some parties noted signs of a revival in business for the fall trade. There was a good investment demand for local securities, with light offerings. New York exchange was firmer, and sterling bills rather more active.—The Chicago grain markets were generally active, being depressed by news of good crop prospects, while provisions were firmer, with considerable struggle to last. As compared with Wednesday pork closed 37½ cents higher, lard unchanged, short ribs 5 cents higher, wheat nearly ½ cent lower, corn ¼ cent lower, oats and barley steady, rye easy, and flaxseed firm.

MR. GLADSTONE inaugurated the electoral campaign in Great Britain most auspiciously yesterday. His journey from London to Edinburg was an unbroken series of popular demonstrations, which proved that the cause of the British people are enthusiastically loyal to him. Even in the metropolis, where Mr. Gladstone's popularity has never been as great as it has been in the provinces, the event was enthusiastic, and there was not one in the vast throng who did not cheer them to express approval of his political progress. In the few brief words which he addressed to the assembled thousands he put the issue before the electors plainly and directly. He warned them that an effort would be made to bring it to subterfuges and disguises and to divert their attention from the main point. "The question," he said, "is solely whether Ireland shall be trusted to manage her own affairs." This was the keynote of his speech during the journey of yesterday. He made an impressive and splendidly-eloquent appeal to the British people at Leicester which will be echoed through the electoral campaign. It is significant that his reception was in low towns or suburbanite of Tory strongholds like Bedford and shall South towns like Calcutta (whose representative, Trevelyan, has broken away from Mr. Gladstone) than in Radical Leicester, Derby, and Normanton. The great Parliamentary leader is said to be in excellent health and good voice. He has lost none of his old-time energy and eloquence.

DEFEAT OF THE DEMOCRATIC TARIFF BILL.

The House yesterday refused, by a vote of 157 to 140, to consider the Morrison Tariff bill. As the motion to take up the bill for consideration was made after formal notice given many days in advance, the decisive majority of seventeen against it may be looked upon as a test of the strength of the supporters of the bill and the end of all tariff legislation for this session. It is apparent that the Morrison faction has made but little progress in tariff reform during the last two years. The former bill was defeated May 6, 1884, by the striking out of the enacting clause by a majority of four, the vote being, on the motion to strike out, yeas 156, nays 160.

Morrison's scheme of tariff reform received more respectful treatment in 1884 than has been accorded to the bill of this session. Consideration was voted for the former bill April 15, 1884, by yeas 146, nays 116. While this narrow majority of two votes was not much for Morrison to boast of, it was nineteen votes better than he could muster in support of the bill of this year. Democratic advocates of tariff reform may seek to extract some comfort from the fact that forty-one Democrats voted against the bill of 1884, whereas only thirty-five are recorded as opposed to the bill of this year; but they are not entitled to any consolation even from this source. The Democratic majority in the Lower House of this Congress is undoubtedly less than that of two years ago. Besides, the vote of yesterday was only on the question of consideration, while that of 1884 was on the merits of the bill when it came up for final passage. There would have been no affirmative vote this year in support of the acknowledged leader of the majority in the House on a simple question of consideration if party discipline or mastery in any way could have brought it about.

In the interval since the bill of 1884 was defeated the Democrats have elected a President upon a platform containing an equivocal tariff plank and have obtained control of every department of the Government except the Senate; but the influence of the Executive was this year exerted on behalf of Morrison, yet the Democrats have shown no capacity to consolidate upon the tariff question. The adverse vote on this bill is both relatively and absolutely much larger than on the former bill.

The vote of yesterday is in strict harmony with the course of the Democratic party since the War with reference to the tariff. That party has been unable to enforce or even formulate any definite tariff policy—unable to reconcile any plan for tariff reform calculated to secure united party support. In National conventions its utterances on the subject have rarely become less obscure and distinct, and in Congress its propositions have become more dubious and fruitless of result. It is absurd to look upon it any longer as a party of tariff reform, since through five Congresses, with all the tariff-reform plans that have been introduced, none has passed into law.

When the Government has responsible, as it is in England, the Democrats would be obliged to retire from office on yesterday's vote. The spectacle presented was that of the leader of the House of Representatives unable to direct and control his own supposed followers and supporters in the matter of a vote upon the most important issue presented since the Presidential election.

Every intelligent attempt at tariff reform and every tariff solution of any importance within the last twenty years has been accomplished by the Republican party, and it is fair to assume that there is no prospect of any further systematic legislation on the subject so long as the Democrats retain control of the House.

NORTHWESTERN RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The financial statement presented at the last annual meeting of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad showed the following facts: The gross earnings for the year ending with May were about $24,000,000. Out of this a little less than $12,000,000 went to pay operating expenses and taxes, and $3,750,000 for the interest on bonded debt and sinking funds. This left $8,750,000 as net earnings, which gave a surplus of $1,000,000, after paying dividends of 6 per cent on common and 7 per cent on preferred stock; all of which is exclusive of revenues derived from the sale of lands.

It would not be fair to apply the new celebrity or attention to his company or the manner by which it was obtained. The managers simply charged what they were able to collect for the service they rendered the public in competition with other lines, and a part of the revenue may legitimately be considered as earned by the increasing value of the property because of filling up of the country served by the Northwestern. But this income is a year that was far from being a prosperous one for the country at large is as much in excess as to warrant the conclusion that the surplus should not have been performed for less. If good prices had been realized by the products of the soil and the wine which were carried by the road there would be another occasion for making a comparison at the risk of having it added as brilliant con-

A NEW INVENTION.

A few years ago we were assured that gas could not be supplied to consumers at less than $1 per 1,000 without entailing bankruptcy to the makers. Now we are to a fair way to have it almost for nothing, with success given fluency to as a consideration. It is true there are a few disadvantages to be put up with (not of present), but they cannot affect our interest. We may not be able for the moment to go anywhere without feeling the steels turn up, and find it hard to get to many places on account of that tearing trouble, it is not quite certain that we will ever be able to go around again; to last weather till after the owners of our autos have been bankrupted by assessments for repairing. In addition to this there is the "nuisance to citizens"—the difficulty of choosing between the evils—which may not reduce Chicago consumers to the condition of the unfortunate at the depot who was torn to bits by contending hackmen. But there must be no very serious fear of this substantially result to the extent that is now going on. All the parties to the fight are quite spirited and determined. Neither need have to any question as to their ability. When Billings has gained its suit for $1,000,000 and Welshire has got a verdict for $1,000,000 to console him for lost patronage and prestige both of these illustrious citizens will be rich enough to keep up the fight for the rest of their natural lives and have it as a legacy to their heirs, while the latter ears will be forced by public opinion to take an equally noble stand in defiance of the petitioners of the people.

A very interesting experiment was performed about a fortnight ago by Prof. Dewar at the Royal Institution in London, England. It was the solidification of oxygen. The gas was first reduced to a liquid under strong pressure, and then allowed to expand rapidly to a partial vacuum. The enormous absorption of heat that accompanied this expansion left the oxygen a snow-like mass, with a temperature of some 300° centigrade below the normal freezing point. This is equal to 360° of the Fahrenheit scale, or about 550° below the zero of the Barometer, more nearly used in the United States. That is not far from the temperature of the way down towards the absolute zero of heat, which has been determined by calculation, but never yet reached experimentally, and probably not to be met with in the regions of space if we could extend our research to the outer parts of the solar system. This is claimed to be the first successful attempt to solidify oxygen, though the French chemists have succeeded by similar means in reducing some of the other gases to the solid form. Of course the condition lasts but for a few moments, as it is impossible long to maintain such a low temperature with terrestrial surroundings. An account of the French experiments in this direction was published in THE TRIBUNE about eighteen months ago in answer to a request for information on the subject.

LORD RANDOLPH'S election address is a dull and unfortunately necessary. Considering the present political complications account for that. He is natural on rare occasions, as symbolic statements. Now he is in a fit of acutely melancholy at breaking away from his political associates, the Grand Old Man. He is not yet a Tory, nor will he ever himself a Whig, and he has only a good connection with the Tories of Liberals whose leader is Joe Chamberlain. The address issued Wednesday has not even the merit of simplicity. It begins with a lamentation over Mr. Bright's rejection as a candidate by the Liberal council of his constituency for his opposition to Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill, and ends with a confession that he has no alternative plan or policy to propose. "I am certainly not prepared," he says, "to commit myself to the details of any plan proposed for the government of Ireland." His criticisms of the bill which was rejected last week have not the charm of novelty. Sir Stafford the same old steps that Chamberlain and he have been beating for months. "Rights of the local minority," "Supremacy of the Imperial Parliament," and the like phrases of the "Home Ruleists," as Gladstone calls them, come out in every paragraph. The manifesto is not likely to attract much attention. It will excite very little enthusiasm for what Mr. Gladstone calls the scandalizing, overcharging, lying, and shambling policy of the Liberal leaders.

THAT little controversy between Mr. Watterson and Mr. Dillon will serve to enlighten the Chicago public as to what would be a fair price for gas. Mr. Dillon says his company can sell gas to the citizens of the West Side for 75 cents per thousand feet and make money. He charges the city, by and with the consent of the Aldermen and the Mayor, $1.50 per 1,000 feet. The Equitable Gas Company, which is diligently laying up the principal thoroughfares of the city, has supplied the illuminating fluid to the people of Baltimore at 40 cents per thousand and made considerable wages in the transaction, Mr. Dillon says. Let the noble Aldermen in the Common Council of Chicago proceed to

THE Philadelphia Press reports in another form a question THE TRIBUNE has already asked repeatedly. It says:

> The Government of Portugal, Mr. Lowe asked in a public speech in London, has granted to a syndicate of London capitalists the right to establish gambling houses in Portugal. Mr. Lowe's question is, Why should not the Government of Great Britain do the same thing? Why should not the Government of Great Britain establish gambling houses in London, Manchester, Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dublin, Belfast, and Cork? Why should not the Government of Great Britain establish gambling houses in Brighton, Scarborough, Margate, Ramsgate, Hastings, Eastbourne, Torquay, Bournemouth, Cheltenham, Harrogate, Buxton, Leamington, Malvern, Matlock, Llandudno, Aberystwith, Tenby, Ilfracombe, Penzance, and other well-known watering-place resorts and abodes?

AN OLD TRICK REVIVED.

A TRICK to have Mr. Gladstone, the editor of the Kansas City Times, is in a fair way to succeed. The attack came from nobody to have been effective enough, Cattle, the question, but a sufficient legal remedy if the statements made by Mr. Hurst were not true, and he ought to have had recourse to the courts. In any event, the conduct in attacking Stanford in a wretched manner was unmanly and brutal to the extreme. It is to be hoped that he will be given the punishment that such an infamous act would draw down upon him.

SOMEBODY out of vacation long recently at around us. No one has thought to set the solution of a Browning Club on the plan established on the Shakespeare craze.

NEW YORK will try another batch of her Aldermen next week. Chicago's deputation of New York's respectable people is considerably reduced; but, from one source, the nation will no doubt be astounded in new revelations. On second thought, though, it would be well to say the ALDERMEN haven't been tried yet.

LONGFELLOW is on a somewhat higher plane than to say half a century ago, but there are a thousand chances for improvement in the average human mind. The ancient greatly grade into the lives of those nearer to us sufficient to enable us to see in proper focus, and in different kind the meeting now of good natures but with a boy's desire to anything that was so beautiful. When the author of Hiawatha was dying he made a call for —and a sterling critic not who should be listened to the last look of eyes—that most accessible some good.

THE TRIBUNE wishes to have that Dr. Shurtleff, the editor of the Kansas City Times, is a fair man to receive. AT the Yale commencement this month there is to be an election of a member of the Corporation to succeed William Walter Phelps of New Jersey, who, after having decided not to accept a renomination, was persuaded by the new Gov. Hatcher to stand again. The proceedings are now to all be elected. Chauncey M. Depew has refused to run against him, and the most formidable rival is Thomas Hastings of New York, (a 1871 Dr. Phelps originated the movement resulting in the election of representatives of the alumni to the Corporation by the graduates, and as he is in full accordance with the present system, would be a fit successful and influential enough to succeed the record of his donations of the last fourteen years. He is the president of the trustees of the Berkeley School and one of the trustees, a prominent and influential citizen of New Haven, Democrat's accomplish, and he has always shown that he does not permit his private and personal affairs to interfere with his duty to Yale. The Phelps dynasty will probably cast its keen vision of the Governorship service in behalf of the institution by voting to continue him in the office.

Mrs. Cochrane, a resident artist at No. 224 La Salle street, yesterday made a statement before Justice Summerfield, of the Central Station, to the effect that a burglar entered her residence on the previous night, and secured $2.50, and the sum $1.00. Gaskill's Kite Star Boulevard on the Street.

A seven-years little colored girl about 12 years of age injured up in front of Justice Summerfield's office, in the Central Station, yesterday afternoon, by a runaway horse attached to a buggy. The horse was driven by a colored man, who was arrested and locked up in the station-house. The girl was taken to her home, No. 1000 Wabash avenue, where it was found that she had received a severe scalp wound, and that her left leg was broken. The horse was owned by Mr. Gaskill, of No. 1000 Wabash avenue.

The Water Supply Through Pipes.

A correspondent in Eastern Ohio took with an answer to a question raised a few days ago about the supply of water brought pipes to the city. The quantity used in the summer was only but half what it should be, the wrong figures being written through inadvertence. The use is therefore correct. Experiments have shown an actual delivery of 5,000 to 6,000 gallons per hour through a one-inch pipe under the usual range of pressure. That is sixty gallons per minute, or 86,400 gallons per day. Through a five-inch pipe under the same pressure, the quantity carried at the City pumps of the largest size of the engines. The pipes in most sections fill to the top, and the water flows over. In the case of the Lake Shore Drive, the pipes are laid on the bottom of the lake, and the water flows over the top. The pipes are arranged in a series of tiers, and the water flows from one tier to the next by means of a hole in the bottom of the pipe. The Western Export Association.

The Western Export Association, whose members have to interest on the whisky pool, met at the Grand Pacific yesterday. About $15,000 of the stock of the Interstate Furnishing & Lasting Company, which is to be within the pool to put the Grand Rapids, the association meeting about $15,000 appointed for, in a good many directions, and with prices and some have been purchased immediately as not being worth to start, the association adjourned for two weeks, to give the liquidators further time to collect. Yesterday, from private memoranda, very probable that the entire premises will be disposed of within a few days, and the association will meet again to wind up affairs. If it fails the pool will dissolve, the accumulated money be distributed among the members, and the association will cease and retire, which is the only basis the association can be united upon.

Chicago Business Troubles.

Dyer Bowers, D. D. Dawson, and J. C. Hawley, owners in wet goods, doing business at Nos. 200 and 202 West Madison street, under the firm name of Dawson Bros., yesterday confessed judgment in the superior Court to Schlesinger & Mayer for $1,870 and to Charles Dyer for $1,000. Henderson, Lawrence & Co., as to bonds as attachment suit in the Superior Court against the firm for $770. Dawson Bros. bought the stock of the goods in the store at the corporation known as Dawson and Van Antwerp from Schlesinger & Mayer about one year ago, and moved to their present place two months ago. The failure is attributed to hasty purchases.

Otto Gutmann, a merchant tailor at No. 224 La Salle street, yesterday made a voluntary assignment to C. L. Goldsmith. The liabilities are estimated to be $5,000, and the assets $1,000.

A FAMOUS WILL CASE.

QUESTION OVER THE LAST TESTAMENT OF THOS. HARDING.

Question Created by the Sudden Appearance of a Woman Claiming to Be the Widow and Several Other Alleged Relatives—The Scrambling Love Matters of a Scientist—The Woman Who Now Claims to Be His Sole Heiress—A Sensational Case of Contest.

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—An interesting case entered Monday morning in Surrogate Ashbel Green's court by the appearance of the sister of Chas. Darius Darling as a witness in the Thomas Darling will contest, in which Surrogate Green has endeavored to prove that a rough horseman from the street, who had served time on the penal island for assaulting one of the police in Long Slip for an undesirable street, and the late Prof. William Darling of the University Medical School were one and the same person. The effort to prove himself to Mrs. Maria Eugene of Brooklyn, formerly the widow of Rufus Darling, and not dead, as he has been presumed to be, and not Mrs. Hendricks, the defendant, because she knew her to be in the right, for she was not less attentive to the wants of her former husband's sister-in-law subsequent to remarriage with R. G. Hendricks, and also consented to a settlement of one-seventh of the estate of her former husband upon her.

Not only is the case an extraordinary one in the identity of the principal professors with the queer incidents brought to the proved, but also in the surprising fact developed in the testimony that the learned scientist and author, who passed away to reside as a spirit, was during the last years of his life, or less, deeply conscious of the infirmities of his intellect.

Prof. Darling, the late professor, was born in Truro, Cornwall, in 1815, and had received an education of more than ordinary quality at the University of Edinburgh and graduating a physician. He came to this country in 1840, and after practicing medicine in Brooklyn for a few years, he became a professor in the University Medical College of New York, and for a number of years was also a professor in the Long Island College Hospital. He was also a professor in the Female Medical College, and was connected with the Brooklyn Hospital. He was also a professor in the Long Island College Hospital. He was also a professor in the Female Medical College, and was connected with the Brooklyn Hospital.

Witness Darling said Dana is written. She further testified that there was no communication between him and Prof. Darling during eleven years, and that Darling always plainly became of the fact that he was dead and gone. She did not know that Darling had left a will. She did not know that Darling had left a will. She did not know that Darling had left a will. She did not know that Darling had left a will.

Tuesday morning the first witness for the defense, an old man in the United States service, testified that he had known Darling for many years, and that the professor was in the habit of visiting the Darling family. NO SHOW FOR ST. LOUIS.

CHICAGO ADMIRERS ADDRESS NO-PLAY TO THE HOMICIDES.

The Champions Are in Good Form for Their Leading Contest with the "Big Four"—The Games Awakening Great Interest—Detroit Wins of the Cubbage and Pfeffer-Orphic Puzzle Games—Playing Structure—Ohio Wesleyan and Kansas Win a Dual Meet at Cross Island.

Omitting over 2,000 people not the St. Louis team debarred by the Vice Exchange upon the home grounds yesterday afternoon, Boyle pitched for the visitors and was unquestionably pounded by the local champions, while Carlson, who occupied the box for Chicago, pitched a remarkably pretty and effective game, holding the St. Louis lads down to seven hits and nothing but one man to base on balls. The game was at no time in doubt, and the contest was conducted to be a very interesting one. The batting of the visitors was mediocre, but the hard batting of the champions proved too much for their opponents.

Chicago went first to bat and scored in the first inning, Isbrecht taking his base on balls and crossing the plate on Duffy's two-bagger. Jim scored the next run in the third, going to first on balls and later crossing home on Duffy's one-bagger. The Visitors did not score again until the fifth inning, when Flood made a base on balls and was followed to the bat by another, when Boyle's home run pushed them across. The "Orioles" then did rather good work, Pfeffer and Flood each making two hits. Williamson's three-bagger brought both Jones and Pfeffer over the plate. Boyle then let the boys bringing Williamson in, causing that player's name a second time, and scoring home on the play that retired Evers. Jones scored the next and last run by bringing the ball over the right-field wall.

The fact that the Chicago club plays better ball than the New Yorks cannot be denied.—New York Sun.

"What is Corcoran being removed for?" is the question that many fellows of the sport are asking just now.

Manager Selee's ought to change the name of his club once more, and perhaps they will play to better luck.—St. Louis Republican.

Little Gary Pfeffer never played better ball than at present. In my opinion he has never gone into a game of ball with more vim and determination than he has displayed in the games with the Washington people.

The Browns and the Cardinals are a match off. The manager of each club claims to have the finest ball players in the country, but for some reason or other, they don't play.

In former years the Chicago nines failed to draw an average attendance of about 2,000 people to a game in Boston, but last week the total for the three games was very 5,000.

As the Chairman of the Association of Baseball players, I take pleasure in announcing that the umpires are also the players' friends. Each umpire has a "Jones" to the ball and he does to the batter's cost but 5 cents.

As the Detroit Directors have failed to legislate pennant to prevent the residents in the neighborhood from seeing the games from "Free Lot," proper steps, Detroit Bicycle Club has voted to entertain the rest of the pennant.

Here, the pitcher of the Washingtons is playing a magnificent game. So far he has made the best record this season by holding the St. Louis team down to a single base hit, while the Chicago may hit the safety three in a recent game.

Lavelle Gaines is pitching a wonderful game for the Pittsburgs this season. Steven Patten (such what he was doing when he signed the contract) is also pitching in fine form. Those two give some of the best pitchers in the business a great many points.

A decision has been rendered by President Wykoff of the American association to appeal to the Kansas court on the Interstate grounds between Latham and Manning of the St. Louis Browns. He has suspended each man for thirty days unless they pay a fine of $50 each into the treasury of the association on or before June 25. This holds the pennant-winning $200 out of Pantages. The decision of the St. Louis club, so far appears to be a defiance of the decision of the association and has been taken in the usage of the games with the championship at stake.

The result of yesterday's games leaves the clubs placed as follows in their race for the pennant:

A Third Victory for Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., June 18.—[Special.]—The Detroits defeated the Kansas City team for the third time in succession. It was a one-sided contest from the fifth inning. The visitors had the score in the third inning, but were unable to score thereafter, and the home club had a walk-away. Throughout the visit to say and his grace is right. Zeis was hit for seventh, three following behind the bat. Piper was let up with a sore knee, and Stricklett played in second and Schreyer, the latest's new Boston, signed to act. He had his own opportunities, which by exception of the bat he did well. The bat was clear and heavy, and it was difficult to judge the ball. The attendance was about 500. The score:
